Wiedenmann's extra deep aerator, the Terra Spike XD, ideal for contractors

Wiedenmann UK's Terra Spike XD comes into its own when you have large areas to be worked. Both deep and fast, it's a perfect choice for contractors and local authorities.

The XD is based on the XF but is more heavily engineered to go into the soil by a crucial extra two inches, answering many of the needs of professional groundsmen. The XF itself was designed from the beginning as a fast machine. Typically, it halves time previously spent aerating.

Major grounds maintenance contractor, Amenity Land Services, bought one of the first Wiedenmann extra deep XD aerators in the UK in June. Contract manager, David Harvey chose the XD to aerify all fine turf down to 11 inches based on the speed, reliability and back up support experienced with its sister machine the XF.

Explaining why he'd selected a Wiedenmann aerator, David Harvey said, "We are contractors. Buying for us is about work rate, back up and reliability. The back up day and night is fantastic, the reliability is second to none and the speed is incredible."

Amenity Land Services has its XD working flat out nearly all year round; five days a week for most of the year, dropping down to three days during high summer and mid winter when the ground is too wet, helping to service some of the 300 golf courses and nearly 80 local authorities that ALS maintains across England. The XD can complete as many as six pitches a day and is also used on tees, greens, bowling greens and wickets.

The XD is available in two working widths: 1.6m and 2.1m and includes PTO slip clutch, linkage pins, rear roller with scraper bar, safety guards and a set of 20 mm diameter tines. There are a selection of optional accessories including turf retainers, core swath board, hydraulic depth control and comprehensive range of solid and coring tines. It retails from £23,650 ex VAT. Ends
