Wiedenmann UK launches new trading division

Wiedenmann UK is delighted to announce it is setting up a new trading division to market a range of heavy duty bulk top dressing machinery, grass grooming and regeneration machines, professional rotary decks and high-performance turbine collection systems. Called Groundpro, the new division launches with immediate effect.

It means as well as distributing the highly successful Wiedenmann range of Terra Spikes and turf and ground care equipment, the company will sell other complementary equipment.

One such machine is the Pro-Cast bulk top dresser which comes in four sizes and can achieve a spread of both dry or wet material up to 16m.

David Rae, managing director, Wiedenmann UK said: "We have been involved with the distribution of machines like Pro-Cast informally for the last few years but I've always wanted to run them alongside the Wiedenmann range. They are essential pieces of kit that sit comfortably with the Wiedenmann fleet. Each of the Groundpro products will share many of the characteristics you would find synonymous with the Wiedenmann brand – robust build quality; technically efficient design and ease-of-use."

Groundpro products will be offered to the market through professional groundcare dealers nationwide.
