DATE: Sept 4, 2007

RELEASE: Immediate

NEW – Wiedenmann launches Terra Spike XD, the extra deep aerator

New to Britain this summer, Wiedenmann's extra deep Terra Spike XD is designed to aerate all fine turf down to 11 inches. Both deep and fast, it is the ideal machine for contractors and local authorities with large areas to be worked.

Already working in the US for a year, the 1.6m wide XD is based on the XF but is more heavily engineered at 1200 kg to go into the soil by a crucial extra two inches. The XF itself was designed from the beginning as a fast machine, halving time previously spent aerating. Users can expect the XD to go up to the same speed as the XF.

The XD is available in two working widths: 1.6m and 2.1m and includes PTO slip clutch, linkage pins, rear roller with scraper bar, safety guards and a set of 20 mm diameter tines. There are a selection of optional accessories including turf retainers, core swath board, hydraulic depth control and comprehensive range of solid and coring tines.

One of the first British buyers of the £23,650 XD plans to complete as many as six pitches a day and will also be using it on tees, greens, bowling greens and wickets.
